

GCORR's "CORR" Values

GCORR Values Accountability

Within the commission and to the church at large through the support and strengthening of the staff, greater involvement of Board members, partnerships and resource sharing with General Agencies, and modeling of the gospel through the building of collaborative, connectional, ecumenical and community relationships in the wider community.

GCORR Values Full and Equal Participation

Of all persons, to have the opportunity to use their gifts, be heard and to make their views known, and to participate fully in the social and political structures of the church.

GCORR Values Systemic Justice

As an advocate for full and equal participation of all people at a variety of levels within The United Methodist Church and the larger society where the structures are mutually formed to meet the needs of the people served in which there is fair access to and distribution of resources toward the improvement of community life.

GCORR Values Inclusiveness

As one of the ways to ensure that a variety of voices, perspectives, ideas and experiences are recognized, valued and acted on to realize our mission to eradicate the sins of racism and to better enable the United Methodist Church to contribute to the common good of a global community.

GCORR Values Love for All People

As a continuation of the work and life of Jesus Christ and a recognition of our call as disciples to a genuine love of the stranger as neighbor, the Commission helps the church to establish the deep roots of relationships in an effort to become "the beloved community" in communion with God and one another.
